This document was provided for the purpose of informing decisionmakers of particular facts that are important to making a decision, and presents options for deliberation before an appropriate decision could be made on this subject. Any factual information provided is so inextricably intertwined with deliberative information that it cannot be segregated. Release of this document containing the author's analysis and opinion would have a clear chilling effect on the ability of advisors to candidly present such options to decisionmakers. Furthermore, because of the options presented, releasing the internal analysis could contribute to public confusion on the reasoning behind an eventual decision.
